1. Why were people happy under King Midas' rule?

2. Did King Midas punish him? Why?

King Midas was a very good king. He was kind and just, and his people were very happy under his rule.

One day, as he was walking in his garden, he saw an old man sleeping under a tree. Usually, anyone who did this would be punished. The king looked at the poor old man and felt sorry for him.

When the man awoke, he was very surprised to see the king sitting nearby. The king told the man that he would not be punished. Then he asked his guards to help the man find his way home. The old man thanked the king many times.

After the guards left, a fairy suddenly appeared before King Midas. "Because you have shown great kindness," she said, "I will grant you one wish!"
